A Touchstone Energy® Cooperative

Community Efforts Lead to KIBLER LIBRARY RE-OPENING

Opened in 2005 and originally funded by the Massanutten Regional Library system and the Page County Board of Supervisors, the William “Bill” Kibler Memorial Library in Stanley was forced to close in fall of 2010 due to budget cuts. In October 2010, the town council appointed a new board of trustees to develop a new library operational plan and organize the re-opening of the library as a non-profit community organization.

By April 2011, members of the community had rallied to re-establish their library. Michael Salvino, president of the Stanley Library Board of Trustees, said in an email interview that working to re-open the library has been a wonderful experience.

“It was the coming together of an entire community to re-open their library. Help came from everywhere, not just financial donations but donations of materials, labor, computers and, of course, books,” he said. “Lots and lots of books. We currently have almost 10,000 books in the collection and only a few have been purchased and not donated. The support given the library board from the town of Stanley and its citizens remains the strongest portion of the effort.”

STARTING OVER

Salvino said that when the community decided to re-open the library, they basically started with a blank canvas. He said they had a building, and, “... thankfully, book shelving that the town purchased, a conference table, and chairs, but not much else.

“We cleaned, painted, laid new flooring, decorated and had six computer work stations built for the donated computers. We purchased library software, and along with some volunteer local librarians began cataloging the incoming books and learning how to be librarians,” he said.

When SVEC Communications Specialist Cammie Tutwiler heard about the library’s closing, and subsequent re-opening due to community efforts, she said she wanted to be able to help.

“I heard that the library had closed, but through the determination of the community members, had re-opened,” she said. “I thought it was really great for a town to come together like that and decide to save their library through donations and volunteer efforts. Collecting books to donate seemed like a good way to contribute to their efforts.”

She turned to her co-workers at SVEC, setting up a “book drive” to benefit the library.

In mid-June, Shenandoah Valley Electric Cooperative (SVEC) employees started work on a new community-oriented project: collecting gently used books from their homes, friends, and relatives, for the recently re-opened library. For almost a month, books accumulated at the district offices until the “due date” of July 15.

Salvino said SVEC’s donations included a number of non-fiction books and quite a few titles the library didn’t have.

“Wow ... (SVEC’s donation) was by far the largest book donation we received,” he said. “As you can imagine, we have received a lot of duplicate titles, especially in fiction. What was unique about the SVEC donation were the varied titles that we received.”

The Cooperative was able to donate 37 boxes of various sizes to the library, with an assortment of children’s books, fiction, and non-fiction works.

“Libraries are great places for all members of the community. I am happy the Cooperative had this opportunity to assist with the Kibler Library’s rebuilding efforts,” Tutwiler said.

FUTURE PLANS FOR THE LIBRARY

Salvino said that the community will continue the process with capital improvements to the building.

“We’d like to catch our breath for a while but then continue full bore with our mission of providing to the residents of our area a fully functional library that can become a focal point of our community,” he said.

The library uses financial contributions to purchase books, materials and equipment. Checks should be made out to The William “Bill” Kibler Memorial Library, and mailed to the library at: P.O. Box 129, Stanley, VA 22851. Cash contributions are also welcome, but must be received by the library.

Donations of books, audio materials, periodicals and equipment are subject to the library’s collection policy and specific needs at the time of donation. Any donated item not added to the library collection may be given to another institution, sold to generate library funds, or discarded as deemed appropriate by the library.

All donated materials become the property of The William “Bill” Kibler Memorial Library. The Stanley Library Board will determine the most appropriate use of these materials to meet library needs.

- Books that have been written in or have highlighter marks
- Textbooks more than 3 years old
- Condensed or abridged books (such as Reader’s Digest editions)
- Outdated information (old travel guides, old encyclopedias, etc.)
- Old magazines

Unclaimed Equity (Capital Credit) Refunds

On the following pages is a list of SVEC members and former members who have not claimed their equity refunds. This refund was originally issued in June 2010 for the allocations of 1995. Unless these equity refunds are claimed by November 10, 2011, they will become donated capital to the Cooperative, as per SVEC's Bylaws, Article VII, Section 2e. If you should know any of these individuals, or their representatives, ask them to contact the Cooperative no later than November 10, 2011. It is important that they contact the Cooperative so that we may update the equity account information with SVEC and refund any amounts currently due to them.

Please fill in the information below if your name or someone you are inquiring about is on the following list. Mail the form to: SVEC, P.O. Box 236, Mt. Crawford, VA 22841.

You will be contacted either by mail or by Cooperative personnel as soon as possible.
